

PET DENTAL HEALTH

Periodontal or oral disease is common in most pets and can show signs of some type of dental disease by age 3

WHAT CAUSES DENTAL DISEASE?

Just like humans, dogs and cats accumulate plaque on their teeth from bacteria left behind from residual particles of food. The buildup of plaque over time can lead to periodontal disease, resulting in multiple health issues for your pet.

Any sort of oral problems can escalate over time if not properly taken care of and can be as serious as tooth loss and organ damage!

SIGNS OF DENTAL DISEASE

PREVENTION: DOG TEETH CLEANING

Taking care of your dog's teeth is the best way to prevent periodontal disease. Regularly brushing their teeth, yearly cleanings at their vet, and providing dental chew toys and treats can help avoid any unnecessary discomfort to your furry family member.

BRUSH TEETH

ANNUAL CLEANING

DENTAL TOYS

KONG DOG DENTAL CHEW TOYS

These are the recommended KONG dental chew toys for dogs to have a safe and fun chewing outlet that helps with their oral hygiene.

Squeezz® Dental
Toy flexes as dogs chew for a deeper cleaning

Dental
Unique Denta-Ridges™ clean teeth while providing a chewing outlet

Dental Stick™
Stuff Denta-Ridges™ with treats; pastes or peanut butter to extend playtime

Dental with Rope
Cotton rope cleans teeth while satisfying natural instincts